About:

I am Dr. Veena Pahuja, currently working as an Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science under the Faculty of Arts, Craft & Social Sciences. With 15 years of academic experience, I have been actively engaged in teaching, research, and exploring the structural and constitutional dynamics of Indian democracy.

I earned my Ph.D. in Political Science from Tanta University in 2023. I completed my M.A. in Political Science from Maharaja Ganga Singh University in 2006, and my B.A. from the same university in 1990. Over the course of my academic journey, I have published 3 research papers and participated in 3 academic conferences.

My research focuses on the Indian Constitution and the provision of emergency, offering a critical study of how emergency powers affect democratic institutions. My areas of interest include emergency provisions in the Indian Constitution, impact of emergency on democratic institutions, constitutional safeguards and civil liberties, and the political structure of India during constitutional crises.

Through my work, I aim to contribute to a deeper understanding of democratic governance and constitutional accountability in India, and to inspire students to engage critically with political systems and legal frameworks.
